TUESDAY CLUB MEETS

PROGRAM BY SONG-WRITER, CARRIE JACOB BOND, DELIGHTS BIG AUDIENCE

The meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club this week was more than a revival or a reopening. It is hard to find a word expressive of the content and satisfaction that radiated from every countenance in the large audience which gathered to enjoy the delightful entertainment furnished by Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, the songwriter.

The meeting was preceded by a session of the parliamentary section, led by Mrs. P. S. McNutt; then there was a brief interval devoted to business, followed by the program proper which opened with a violin number by John Marquardt most acceptable to his hearers. He is an artist whose contributions to any program are always a joy, and in Miss Gertrude Champlain he had a sympathetic accompanist.

Mrs. Bond's work is rich in human interest and makes an instant appeal. Her "Perfect Day" and "Just a Wearyin' for You" needed no campaign of promotion to win popularity. They just sang themselves into the hearts of the world. The "Perfect Day" has been translated into other languages and has been sung by soldiers alien to American skies and the English tongue.

She has rare charm as an author-reader, and when she is the medium of transmission it is easy to understand how these dainty songs and verses, in which laughter is so close to tears, came into being; for they are so clearly a part of herself, like wisps of vapor detached from some big cloud sailing the blue in serene confidence that all is well, a cloud that nevertheless may brim over and descend in a healing rain of tears.

Her beginning was the story of "My Old man," who owned a big farm on the outskirts of a city and who was overtaken by the march of improvement. He didn't want to sell any of it, but he yielded so sweetly and without haggling with the capitalists seeking to buy that they paid more than he demanded. You would know by that one touch it was a poet's tale. The old man—the same old man who must have inspired "Just A-wearyin' for You"—and his wife remained the same sweet philosophers they always had been, and their home continued to be the abode of a peace which was felt by all who entered its portals. She described these pilgrims to their door and the effect of that home atmosphere upon them and then recited the little poems which epitomized the episodes. The old farmers tribute to "The Reporter" being a typical and especially fine sample of the cycle of verse.

After explaining in a whimsical way that she did not pretend to be a singer and had never taken a lesson in her life, but that the pleasant task

W. S. S. PLANS FOR 1919

NEW $5 WAR SAVINGS STAMPS WIL BEAR THE HEAD OF BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

Professor Harry Howe, chairman of the war savings committee in Glendale, reports that $200 worth of stamps were sold last Friday at the high school. The report of the canvas made during Honor Week is not yet compiled, but Mr. Howe intimated that it showed a satisfactory condition so far as Glendale is concerned, for it showed that many subscribers had exceeded in their purchases the amounts pledged. He states that official communications from the treasury department at Washington indicate that the war savings certificate and thrift stamp program for 1919 will follow the same lines as 1918.

The secretary of the treasury has determined upon the issuance of a new series of war savings certificates and stamps to be placed on sale early in 1919, and to be known as the series of 1919. The new series will have a maturity date of January 1, 1924, and in practically all respects will be issued on the same terms and in the same manner as the present series of 1918.

A new $5 war savings stamp, blue in color, bearing the head of Benjamin Franklin, the apostle of saving and a former postmaster general, is in preparation. The new stamps will be placed on sale early in 1919.

The same thrift stamps and thrift cards now in use will be continued in 1919, and will be exchangeable into new series of 1919 war savings stamps, payable January 1, 1924, in the same way as the exchange has been made during this year into the series of 1918 war savings stamps.

IN OLD VIRGINIA

EUGENE IMLER MEETS FORMER GLENDALE BOY THROUGH LETTER IN NEWS

Camp A. A. Humphreys, Va.,
Nov. 30, 1918.

Dear Folks at Home: I have just finished my week's washing of clothes and as it did not take all Saturday afternoon, although I am no expert at it, I will write my weekly letter home.

I have moved again! This is the fourth move I have made since I have been in this E. O. T. S. They keep us moving all day with our packs or an Enfield on our backs and at night we move our beds. Gee! It's a great life, and when Mother needs any moving done when I return home she will surely have an expert. I can move everything I have in one load.

This last move is to combine all the men left here into new companies according to how long we have been in training.

I had quite a delightful surprise yesterday, while I was moving. Who should come up and inquire "Are you from Glendale?" but Frank Butterfield. We did not know each other in Glendale, but this is the way we met here, away back here in Virginia.

Some one of you at home—I don't know whom to blame, permitted one of my letters to be published in the Glendale Evening News, and Frank's mother, reading that I was in the same camp with her son, sent the clipping in a letter to him and he looked me up.

We surely had a dandy talk about Glendale and the remainder of Southern California; that is, I did most of the talking, as I had the "latest dope." It is very singular Frank

LIEUTENANT NORMAN WHYTOCK WOUNDED

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Whytock today received a clipping relative to their son, Lieutenant Norman R. Whytock, who is now in a hospital in France. The clipping, which was from a New York paper, was sent to them by another son, Captain Roslyn Whytock, who is in the army intelligence department.

Two weeks ago they heard from Lieutenant Whytock, who explained his hospital sojourn by saying that for seven days and nights he was in a shell-hole where it was very wet, that he caught cold and had to be taken to a hospital; but he did not tell them he had been wounded, and they did not learn it until this clipping reached them. The lieutenant went to France with the 103rd Infantry of the New England Division. Captain Roslyn Whytock was overseas as a war correspondent for the New York World, but when America entered the war he returned to this country and enlisted.

SCHOOL CONSERVATION

Professor George U. Moyse, principal of the high school, reports that instructors are continuing their effort to make the work of the year demanded by the curriculum laid down by the state fit into the reduced school year. This means conservation and cutting out all non-essentials. It means in English, for instance, that all outside reading which is not necessary will be cut out. The major emphasis will be put on essentials.

The unusual term conditions will also make necessary the extension of the first half year for two weeks. In other words, the mid-year term will open two weeks later than usual. This will be an accommodation to the graduates of the intermediate school who will be entering high school at that time and who have likewise been crippled by the shortened term.

CAMPING PARK SITE WANTED

In connection with the purpose of the Greater Glendale Development Association to establish in Glendale a camping park for automobile tourists, the committee in charge requests written offers of suitable sites of not less than half a city block in size, located as near the business center as possible, to be leased for the purpose stated for a period of not less than three years.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS' BANQUET

Another delightful dinner will be served to R. A. M. and their families at Masonic Temple Friday at 6 p. m. sharp. This will be a place-card affair. Unless reservation is made by noon Thursday you will be embarrassed by not finding your name. This includes officers as well as others.

GERMAN SOCIALIST ARMY IN PROSPECT

CHANCELLOR EBERT CREDITED WITH INTENTION TO ORGANIZE ONE TO OFFSET SPARTACUS GROUP

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Amsterdam, Dec. 11.—Berlin dispatches today said that Chancellor Ebert had decided to form a Socialist army to offset the Spartacus or radical group. Other dispatches reported that the Workmen's and Soldiers' executive committee had conceded supreme authority to the Ebert government.

Wolff Bureau dispatches, via Berne, said the German situation is growing worse hourly, and the workmen now are mobilizing machine guns in the suburbs of the city.

The Workmen's and Soldiers' Committee has demanded the arrest of Karl Liebknecht, the radical leader.

The Cologne Zeitung today warned the country that financial disaster is impending unless the government is reorganized. The paper declared that the constant demand of the present socialistic government for higher wages is becoming ruinous.

JUDGE HEWITT OF SUPERIOR COURT RULES INFLUENZA BAN ON PUBLIC MEETINGS IN PASADENA IS INVALID

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11.—Superior Judge Hewitt today ruled that the influenza ban on public meetings at Pasadena is invalid and granted an injunction to the First Christian Science Church of Pasadena against the enforcement of the closing order.

SUSPICIOUS OF ENGLAND AND FRANCE

FORMER PREMIER KERENSKY APPEALS TO AMERICA TO PROTECT RUSSIA FROM EXPLOITATION BY THEM

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

London, Dec. 11.—Former Russian Premier Kerensky today declared in an interview with the United Press that England and France are opposing the unification of Russia, fearing it would restore Russia to her former international position.

"England and France are seeking to impose another Brest-Litovsk upon Russia," he said. Declaring that Russia had fought three years, he claimed it was "due to her that America had time to prepare for war and administer the knock-out blow."

"After the Brest-Litovsk treaty was signed," Kerensky said, "the Russians tried to continue the war, but their appeals for aid were answered 'by an organized attempt to exploit Russian wealth and cut Russia off from Europe with a barrier of tiny, quasi-independent states'."

Kerensky said he believed that the peace conference should guarantee the integrity of Russian territory as it was before the Brest-Litovsk treaty was signed, and he suggested the formation of a confederation of Russian states modelled after the government of the United States.

Kerensky appealed to America to protect Russia "from exploitation by her former allies," and said that "perhaps President Wilson's presence at the peace conference will prevent any brigandage."

OUT OF RANGE OF AMERICAN WIRELESS

TRANSPORT GEORGE WASHINGTON, BEARING PRESIDENTIAL PARTY, IN TOUCH WITH FRENCH STATIONS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Dec. 11.—No direct messages have been received from the transport George Washington, carrying President Wilson and party to Europe, since late yesterday. The navy department said the vessel apparently is now out of range of the American wireless and is in communication with the French wireless stations.

THREE MORE TRANSPORTS FROM EUROPE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Dec. 11.—Three more transports arrived today from Europe, carrping 4,535 officers and men. They were the "Canopic," which arrived at Boston, the "Calamares" and the "Ascanius," which reached New York.

PROSPECTS FOR NAVY DISCHARGES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Dec. 11.—Secretary Daniels today declared that he hoped that 100,000 enlisted men of the navy who are slated for discharge will be out of service by the end of the year.

He said that 75,000 more will be out by July 1, leaving the enlisted strength of the navy at 350,000.

INFLUENZA IN LOS ANGELES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11.—The Spanish influenza situation became alarming here today when 650 cases with four deaths were reported in two hours up to 10 o'clock. This is an increase of 100 per cent in seven days. The total cases reported here since October 1 are 35,800, with 2,000 deaths.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY DANCE

Captain D. Ripley Jackson was the central figure in an important social event which took place Tuesday evening at his home, where Mrs. Jackson provided a surprise in the form of a dancing party in celebration of his birthday. He will not declare which birthday it was—says it would take up too much space in the paper—but, anyway, he is still young enough to tread the mazy measures and to enjoy a good time. The house was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums, carnations and other flowers, many of them from the captain's garden, which is quite a show place. Some of the guests invited were unable to respond on account of influenza and other ailments, but the list of those present included: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Burson, Mr. and Mrs. L. Q. Silberberg, Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith, Captain and Mrs. W. C. Wattles, Mrs J. B. Fraser, Mrs. M. S. Coddington and daughter, Ethel, of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Turner of Sierra Vista. Dancing was the order of the evening until after midnight, when dainty refreshments were served, which included, of course, a handsome birthday cake, minus the tell-tale candles. Captain Jackson was also the recipient of many gifts from his relatives.

EUSTACE A. ROWLEY

NAVY DEPT. ASKS FOR HIS PHOTOGRAPH AS PART OF ITS GALLERY OF HEROES

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Rowley of this city have been made proud and happy by the receipt of a letter from the navy department at Washington, asking for a photograph of their son, Eustace A. Rowley, who is in the U. S. navy. The letter states that this picture is wanted as a part of a permanent exhibit of boys who have been commended for heroism during the present war.

Eustace joined the navy ten days after war was declared, before he was graduated from the senior class (1917) of Los Angeles High. He was assigned to the Marblehead and was made commandant of the company detailed to clear up the wreck of the magazine which was exploded on Mare Island early in the war. Later, with two shipmates from the Marblehead, he was given shore work on the Honduras coast.

His parents believe that this request for his picture is made on account of the rescue of sixteen sailors in the harbor of Key West on the night of September 29, when a liberty boat from the U. S. S. Salem was capsized in a storm and boys from the Marblehead manned lifeboats and succeeded in saving sixteen out of thirty-five. Eustace was one of that rescue crew. In writing of the occurrence, he said:

"It was a very stormy night with the tide running out of the harbor like a river and the waves ten feet high." Both the captain and the admiral, who was stationed there, complimented the boys on their work that night, and this request is probably the sequel to that incident.

Such personal and permanent recognition of courage in doing his duty would be regarded by many as of more value than a commission. Anyway, this mark of appreciation on the part of the navy department is very gratifying.

Eustace was disappointed because he failed to get to the war zone, but was not cheated wholly out of the excitements of the fray. His last letter told of the following by the Marblehead of an enemy submarine operating in southeastern waters. Its periscope was sighted by the lookout and it was also betrayed by the sound detectors with which the ship was equipped, but they had no depth bombs and could only chase it. The letter also states that the Marblehead was soon to sail from Key West for Colon, en route for San Diego, which might be reached by the first of the new year.

RED CROSS TRUCK

OFFICIAL TRANSPORT OF LOCAL CHAPTER MAKES FIRST RUN TO L. A. TODAY

The salvage department of the Junior Red Cross, of which L. T. Rowley is in charge, is now in possession of the truck purchased for its use by the Glendale chapter, through the Ford agency, and it will make its first run as the official transport of the chapter this morning, carrying nine boxes of clothing prepared by the conservation department, which are to be delivered to Belgian Relief headquarters. Letters and telephone messages received from those headquarters indicate that this contribution will ve very welcome. It includes some splendid warm clothing and all of it is useful.

Mr. Rowley has also been entrusted with a beautiful and complete layette, which has been made by a Glendale needlewoman whose loving thoughts have gone into her work, which she wishes to go to some French mother. That consignment will be carried to the French Relief headquarters.

In a few days the metal, bottles and rubber stocks accumulated by the department will be taken to Los Angeles and sold. With this truck available for daily collections, it is believed that large amounts of salvage can be gathered up and speedily turned into money for the Red Cross.

she had set herself seemed to demand that she sing her songs and so make them carry the message she wished to express, she played and sang two of the old favorites, "I Love You Truly" and "Just A-wearyin' for You," followed by "The Lucky Fellow" and "Do You Remember"; also the little skit, "Talking About Other People." From her child poems—"Tales of Little Dogs"—she read "The Red Cross Dog," which struck a responsive chord.

She took the audience into her confidence and told of the cheer and also the chastening of spirit that had come to her through many letters of appreciation telling of the comfort and inspiration her "Perfect Day" had been to sorrowing hearts. She told, too, of the special peace version of "The Perfect Day," for which words had been written by J. P. McEvoy and of which 700,000 copies were sold in New York. Leaflets were passed to the audience bearing the new words, as follows:

They are coming home to the blare of bands,
To the proud applause and acclaim,
To the wreaths and songs and the yearning hands
And the hearts that are all aflame.
And we're waiting for those who with courage high
Went forth to the flaming fray;
When their ships come home how our hearts will cry
Here's the end of a Perfect Day!

They are coming home with the vic'try won,
With the world made fairer and free,
And the lands that cringed 'neath the lash and gun
They've restored to their liberty.
And the ones who sleep 'neath a far-off sod
We will not forget—but pray
That we'll join them all at the Throne of God
At the end of some Perfect Day.

Her program closed with two unpublished songs, chief of which was "My Son," a soul-stirring mother-cry of triumphant sacrifice leading up to triumphant joy in victory achieved through the sacrifice.

A beautiful tribute to the poet was paid by Mrs. Ramsay, president of the club, who quoted the legend by Olive Shriner of the artist whose wonderful coloring was the despair of his fellow artists. When he died they congratulated themselves on the opportunity to learn his secret, but a search of his paint-pots revealed nothing. When, however, the body was made ready for the grave, an open wound near the heart was found, from which was oozing the rich color which had made his picture the wonder of all beholders. Mrs. Bond's songs likewise came from her heart and found response in other breasts, she declared.

Mrs. Clotworthy then presented to the club a beautiful portrait of a past-president, Mrs. Martha Morris—known as "the Club Mother"—which was painted by Miss Violet Sayre, a miniature painter of some renown, whose studio is in Chicago. The portrait was made for her friend, Mrs. Charles Turck, and by her presented to the club. As it was impossible for Mrs. Morris to give the sittings last summer, when Miss Sayre was here, photographs were taken by Mrs. Brown of Santa Barbara, also a friend of Mrs. Turck, and from these was made the portrait, which is not only a speaking likeness, but a beautifuf piece of work. On arrival it was framed by Mrs. Turck. The gift was graciously accepted by Mrs. Ramsay, and a motion offered by Mrs. Freeman Kelley, that the thanks of the club be conveyed to Mrs. Turck and that the picture be placed in the custody of Mrs. Charles Stanley, daughter of Mrs. Morris, until the organization has a club home, was unanimously carried. Miss Sayre, the artist, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Sayre of Central Avenue, this city.

OVER THE TOP

(Composed by Robert Lee McLaren, 362nd Infantry, Co. M, 91st Div.)

At last the time has come
When over the top I go,
To face the Hun's machine gun,
To face the German foe.
The time is drawing near,
But still I am not afraid,
For I am a true American,
Always ready to aid.

To the aid of poor little Belgium,
To the aid of France we go—
To the aid of dear old England.
The Germans we will show
That the true American spirit,
Where'er it may be,
Will need no one to cheer it
In this struggle for liberty.

We are over at last,
With a great, determined yell
That we will drive the unfair
Germans to the gates of hell.
Even into Berlin
We will fight our way
And drag the kaiser tyrant
From out his palace gay.

And never will we cease or rest
Until our bit is done
And we have silenced
Every German gun.
And when we know it is finished,
We will go again once more
To the land of Uncle Sammie,
Upon the other shore.

and I never met before, as we know each other's friends so well. He is a sergeant in an engineers' company here. He has been in non-commissioned school and knows that this song, to the tune of "Keep Your Head Down, Fritzy Boy," is true:

"Keep away from the Engineers,
"Keep away from the Engineers,
They'll break your back
With a shovel and a pack.
It's awful! It's awful!
They'll send you down the road,
Without any decent clothes.
If you want to reach France
With a whole pair of pants,
Keep away from the Engineers!"

My work is getting so much more interesting now, especially since we don't have to arise until 6:15 for Reveille now. We wear our overcoats, too, and they sure feel fine, for it is below freezing, although we have had no snow as yet. We have mess at 6:45, barracks inspection 7:30, drill 7:30-3:30, bayonet drill 8:30-9:00, physical exercises 9:00-9:30, drill 9:30-10:30, lecture or class 10:30-11:30, mess 12, field problems 1:00-4:00, inspection and retreat 5:45, mess 5:30, study 7:00-9:00 and taps at 10:00. You will observe our program has eased up somewhat.

The bayonet drill is great stuff, but the other day I did not look mad enough and had to double time around a distant tree. Double time is our punishment for any mistake we make. Someone is always doubling around something.

The physical exercise is like that I used to lead at Throop College, but instead of taking it standing still we are continually walking in a large circle. You find muscles in your anatomy you did not know you had. Our lectures and class work are on the bookwork of the army. But the afternoons are what I enjoy. We go on tactical problems in the woods surrounding camp. This is a wonderfully fine place for such work, too. In our first problem our captain asked someone to volunteer and I stepped forward, and I must have got away with it, for he did not call me down, and they never lose a chance to do that. Neverthless, the following day I was the first one to be made acting sergeant. You see we are all given chances at the different positions. Here's where my R. O. T. C. experience, at Throop College came in handy. We were doing the same work there that we have been doing here, only here it is combined into less time with more intensive training.

We have been experiencing some very cold, windy and extremely disagreeable weather. Whoever wrote that song about "Carry me back to Old Virginia" must have been residing in California and forgot weather and climatic conditions here; but still it could be worse, so why complain?

This year was my second to spend Thanksgiving away from home. I missed Auntie's tapioca cream and pumpkin pies, but our dinner was sure great. One hundred and twenty-five pounds of turkey for sixty men in our mess hall, and everything else in proportion. More than we could possibly eat, and I surely did my best. We had a piano in the hall and after our splendid Thanksgiving dinner we sang all the songs we could think of and had a wonderful time. Some of our men were on "pass," but they could not have had a better dinner or a more delightful Thanksgiving.

You see it is getting near "mess" time, as I have started to write about "chow," so I shall close and get ready for the event. Love to all.

Mrs. John Barr of Denver, Mrs. John Newton Russell and Miss Florence Moore of Hobart Boulevard, Los Angeles, were all-day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turck one day this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. M. Wood, with Master Mark, are spending the week at their old home on Verdugo Road, before moving permanently to Hollywood, where Mr. Wood has purchased a beautiful home.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Furst of Isabel Street and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lyons were guests at a dinner given Tuesday evening at the Roslyn Hotel by Dr. O. J. Furst of Los Angeles to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Furst, Senior.

Mrs. John Fisher of 915 South Brand Boulevard has just arrived from a trip to Wyoming, where she usually spends the summers. She was away for three months, but is glad to see California again.

The election of officers for the coming year of the Woman's Relief Corps will occur Friday afternoon at G. A. R. Hall, and on Saturday the N. P. Banks Post will elect officers. As these are exceedingly important meetings, the full membership should come out.

Friends of Miss Clara Midcalf, who is a teacher in the Intermediate School, state that she is not suffering from influenza, but from heart trouble, which is so much better that she expects to be in normal health in a very short time. She is in Los Angeles with her sister, Mrs. Haskell.

A letter received from Sergeant John J. McCoy, who is instructor at the non-com. officers' school at Fort Winfield Scott, San Francisco, states that the camp is again under quarantine, but nevertheless the companies are being mustered out daily, and he expects to eat Christmas dinner at his home on East Wilson.

Two familiar faces are missing from the Glendale post office on Brand Boulevard, Postmaster Frederick B. Walker, who has been confined to his bed for some little time with influenza, and his assistant, "Jack" Boettner, who is also an influenza victim and has been confined to his bed, though he is improving. Mr. Boettner, who contracted the disease first, is able to be up today for the first time.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Houston of 440 Myrtle Avenue were delighted to have the pleasure of entertaining on Wednesday A. E. Landman, a former resident of Glendale and their neighbor. For years he was connected with the Don Lee Agency of the Cadillac in Los Angeles. After spending two years in Arizona, he returned to Los Angeles, where he is recuperating from a serious illness. It was the first time he had been out for a year and was an event to him as well as to his host and hostess. Mrs. Landman was also their guest.

Colonel and Mrs. J. B. Fraser, sister and brother-in-law of Captain and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson of Chestnut street, arrived last Sunday morning. They were expected to reach Glendale in time to enjoy a Thanksgiving dinner with the Jacksons, but were delayed in getting away from the east. The colonel is about to leave for a week's business trip into Mexico, but Mrs. Fraser will remain and they will be guests in the Jackson home until the first of the year, when they will look around for a permanent location. They have burned all their bridges in the east and have come to California to stay.

Mrs. Malcolm McLaren of 303 North Jackson Street has reecived a letter from her son, Robert, dated Nov. 6, somewhere in Belgium, in which he said he had been over the top twice and they sure had the Huns on the run. He said the weather was beginning to get cold, but the boys didn't seem to mind it. He also enclosed another little piece of poetry after going over the top, and said he would write a long letter soon. Mr. and Mrs. McLaren took part in the mammoth moving picture which was staged last Sunday at Lincoln Park, in which the parents of the boys over there were requested to pass in front of the camera and wave and smile. Mrs. McLaren is in hopes her boy will see her wave at him when the picture is shown to the boys next month over there. The picture is called "Smiles Across the Sea," which is a very appropriate name for it.

BIDDY BABETTE MAKES RECORD

Biddy Babette, Red Cross hen sold in December, 1917, by Cameron DeHart Thom, auctioneer, to C. L. Booth, in competition with John Hyde Braly, is making a reputation for herself. Mr. Thom seems to feel that Biddy's exploits in some way reflect credit on himself as an auctioneer, and is carrying around an egg about the size of a small ostrich egg to support the story that Biddy lays every day and that every month, on the anniversary of the auction, she deposits one the size of the sample he displays. This egg was left at the Evening News office and was found to measure eight inches in circumference one way and six and one-half the other. In days gone by we could have reported that the luscious hen fruit had been presented to the editor and that his family had dined off the same, or at least it would have been exchanged for a year's subscription to the paper, but, alas, Auctioneer Thom called and carried it away carefully wrapped in tissue paper, after it had been duly measured and admired and all had agreed that it was a question of Biddy Babette's laying against Auctioneer Thom's lying.

ADVENTIST CHURCH NOTES

Elder Christian, Elder J. A. Stevens and Elder W. F. Martin of Riverside, president of the Southeastern California Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, have just returned from College View, Nebraska, where they attended a meeting of the Home Missonary Council for North America. Plans were laid at that meeting for an advance step along home mission lines, under which all lay members are to be put to work as far as possible in the promotion of the doctrines of this denomination. The plans are broad and it remains for church members to carry them out.

Elder G. W. Reaser has just returned from a trip to the northern part of the state, during which he visited Oakland and Modesto on conference business.

B. M. Emerson, secretary and treasurer of the Pacific Union Conference, and James Howarth, his assistant, have just returned from auditing work at Fresno. Mr. Howarth reached Glendale in time to welcome a new arrival at the Howarth home, a fine, healthy girl, born Monday, Dec. 9, 1918, who is to be called Barbara Serena Howarth.

Miss Winifred Sturges is back in the office of the Pacific Union Conference after recovering from an attack of influenza.

MASONIC NEWS

At the last meeting of the Glendale Commandery, Knights Templar, degrees were conferred upon Riley Lyons of Long Beach and Paul Jennings of Burbank. The work was accompanied by new features put on for the first time. Next Monday night the Long Beach Commandery comes to Glendale to put on Templar degrees for the local commandery.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF H. N. CHAFFEE

Funeral services over the body of Lieutenant Herbert N. Chaffee, who was killed in an airplane accident Sunday afternoon, were held in Pasadena this morning at 10 o'clock, at the home of his father, H. G. Chaffee, the well known grocer, and also at the cemetery where it was interred. A fleet of airplanes circled over the house, dropping flowers, while the services were in progress. A mass of floral tributes testified to the regard in which the lieutenant was held and to the sympathy of the community for his bereaved family. The employes of the Chaffee store in Glendale placed an order with Freeman McG. Kelley, the local florist, for a floral airplane which was one of the most striking pieces displayed at the funeral. It was complete in every detail and many called at the shop on Brand Boulevard to see it before it was removed to Pasadena. During the services it was mounted on a stand and so poised that it had the effect of flying. The Chaffee store in Burbank also sent a beautiful floral tribute through Mr. Kelley.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Partly because of the general prejudice against large gatherings on account of the influenza epidemic, and partly through a desire to conserve time, no assemblies have been held at the high school since it reopened. The first break in this policy will probably be made when the Junior play is presented.

When consulted in regard to attendance, Business Manager Irving Oliver said: "It is hard to determine exactly because pupils are absent according to periods; will perhaps skip two and then return. Monday about 60 out of our enrollment of 600 were absent, some for half, some for all day. That is only 10 per cent, and we have sometimes had as many gone in perfectly normal times."

The Seniors of Glendale Union High have ordered their class rings. Several designs were submitted by members of the class, and the one made by Miss Lois Murphy was chosen.

PACIFIC AVENUE P. T. A.

The program for the Pacific Avenue Parent-Teachers' Association to be held Thursday, Dec. 12, at 2:45 sharp, will be as follows:

Rev. W. J. Marsh will speak on "Our Country and Our Mission."

Mrs. A. A. Barton will tell "Some of the aims of the Federation for this year."

Mrs. Charles E. Parker will sing. An attendant will be present to care for children. Light refreshments will be served. Board meeting at 2:30.

All desiring to help the Junior Red Cross can do so by bringing needle, thread and thimble, to sew on hospital handkerchiefs furnished during the meeting.

CAPTAIN FALLON'S SACRIFICE

He has given his right hand. In speaking of the loss of the use of this member, he says: "It's what I have given for the cause of God and humanity. I met two Germans in No Man's Land. They took from me my right hand, but I sent those two dogs of Satan back to heli, and I am satisfied." Captain Fallon has been wounded fifteen times, yet lives to tell us of his terrible sufferings and experiences.

Captain Fallon will speak at the Elks' Club Friday evening, Dec. 13. Admission is free. Be sure to hear him.

WOULD BAN SUCH NAMES AS 'SHEENY" AND "WOP"

Washington, Dec. 10.—The department of the interior, bureau of education, if trying to discourage the use of nick-names especially designating certain classes of foreign-born Americans.

"Dago," "Kike," "Wop," "Mick," "Greaser," "Paddy," "Sheeny," "Spaghetti," and similar names make no hit with the bureau of education, which maintains that such distinctions tend to promote lines of cleavage between American-born and Americanized foreign-born persons and groups.

The bureau is sending out a suggested form for a pledge to refrain from the use of such names. Schools and factories will be supplied with the proposed pledge, so that American children and adults may stop to think of the undesirability of making sport of anybody because he was not born in this country.

NATION OF NATIONS WOULD RULE SEAS

By ALFRED OWEN CROZIER
Author of "Nation of Nations"
(Written for the United Press.)

(Editor's Note:—Mr. Crozier, a lawyer and writer of New York City, is the originator of the "Nation of Nations" plan, which now seems likely to be advanced, possibly in a modified form, by President Wilson before the world peace conference. Mr. Crozier here sets forth the chief characteristics of his plan for world government.)

The entire world is now asking the question, "What kind of a League of Nations?" Two general plans have been suggested:

The Nation of Nations plan proposes the kind of a league of nations that would be a new, permanent, independent, international government, in which every nation would be equitably represented on an agreed basis. The forty scattered and conflicting national police powers would be largely merged into one overwhelming, ready-to-strike central police power, controlled exclusively by the Nation of Nations. To create this mutual power under such mutual management, each nation shall be required to turn over at least half of its armaments.

The surrendered German navy no doubt will also be used for this purpose.

The constitution of the Nation of Nations would define its limited delegated powers, duties and restrictions. It would not interfere in the domestic affairs of any country. It would have supreme authority and means to prevent wanton attacks by one nation on another. It would control everything outside of national boundaries and license loyal orderly nations to use the seas on terms of absolute equality, but could cancel the license and drive from the seas the commerce of any lawless country found guilty of disturbing the world's peace without just cause.

The Nation of Nations would invite, but would have no power to require, the armed assistance of individual nations. That makes it safe for all countries to join in this plan. The only thing a nation agrees to is that it will not start a war of aggression and will furnish its share of armaments and money for the central police power.

Treaty Alliance Plan

The Alliance plan of the League to Enforce Peace proposes a world defensive alliance or entente created and held together by a "scrap of paper" that could be broken or terminated any time by any nation. The forty competing national police powers would remain as now, but be employed in joint attacks against any nation or group of nations beginning war, such co-operative armed action to be negotiated only after the war has bgun. That plan is not practical.

Under such an ailiance plan, of course, any one country, simply by attacking another, could cause world war suddenly any time. Each war automatically would become a world war. Obviously, that system would be the devil's endless chain for binding the nations together in one "entangling alliance" and then dragging them all helplessly into war again and again. The United States could not lawfully, and would not, join in such a dangerous scheme. This war has been in vain, and must be repeated, if it ends with no plan, or this alliance plan.

The Nation of Nations, or government plan was prepared and sent to the President in August, 1914. The League to Enforce Peace was organized and its world alliance plan proposed in June, 1915. On September 27, 1918, in his New York speech, President Wilson rejected the alliance plan by declaring for an international instrumentality with a constitution. Alliances do not have constitutions, but governments do. On November 25, 1918, the league completely reversed its former position. It abandoned its world alliance scheme and came out for a governmental organization with legislative, executive and judicial branches and functions to regulate the family of nations. This is gratifying, because for two years I have been trying to persaude leaders of the league to take that action. Now it should be possible to back the President with solid support in his great task of inducing the world to adopt this unsefish and practical American plan for abolishing war, for there is no workable alternative plan.

Nation of Nations Plan

Government, some form of supreme authority with a police power, is the only thing that ever established and maintained order anywhere, in nation, state, city or tribe. But this recognized agency and evidence of civilization never has been used in the family of nations, where it always was needed most. There brutal, savage, uncivilized lynch law prevails, because there is no binding law, court or executive to establish justice and order and prevent war. Is not this the proper time to put the international world on a modern civilized basis by creating therein a Nation of Nations in which all nations and peoples would have a fair and effective voice?

The old system of alliances and ever increasing competitive national armaments and forces has miserably failed. It inflicted a world war that has sacrificed nearly 10,000,000 lives and $200,000,000,000 of treasure and maimed 20,000,000 human beings. That is a high price for mankind to pay for one war, but it will be worth while if it shall cause the adoption of a practicable plan that will insure perpetual peace. If a new system of the right character is established, the war will have been the Armageddon of holy prophesy and be followed by the thousand years of "peace on earth, good will to all men."

There can be no proper and effective league of nations unless all nations agree to relinquish every claim of special privileges outside of their borders and delegate to the Nation of Nations the full and exclusive power to regulate use of the high seas by all countries on terms of absolute equality. There would be no injustice to any nation in this plan, and no injury to its legitimate interests. And the nation that refuses to co-operate with other nations and thereby prevents the creation of a proper league of nations must expect to be held forever responsible for leaving the peoples of the world exposed to the danger and certainty of future wars.

Freedom of the Seas

The time has arrived when failure can be avoided only by plain speech. The freedom of the seas question was involved in the war that made the United States a republic. It was the sole cause of the war of 1812 between the United States and Great Britain, and came very near driving those countries to war during our civil war. At other times it has strained relations and caused bad feeling between these two splendid peoples of the same race. And during this war Great Britain committed a hundred acts against the rights and property of the United States on the high seas considered unlawful by this country, any one of which might have legally justified war under ordinary conditions.

The United States entered the war at its darkest hour. It believes it rendered Great Britain and its allies valuable and needed assistance. It does not desire in any way to capitalize that fact for its selfish advantage. But it does believe it has earned the right to ask its associates in the war to join with it in creating a Nation of Nations for their mutual protection, and to relieve the nations of the necessity of all going permanently on a military basis.

To that end it feels justified in expecting freedom of the seas to be such as to remove the danger of future disputes and make it unnecessary for the United States to build a navy double that of any other country to maintain the right of its ships and commerce to go anywhere upon the high seas unmolested by any nation with which it is at peace.

Central Police Power Control

The special circumstances of this war are conceded. Blockade, search and seizures have contributed to the mutual victory. But now we are planning for the future. If a proper Nation of Nations is created and supported, more wars between nations will be unnecessary and impossible. Such wars will be unlawful unless approved by the Nation of Nations. A nation wantonly starting war will be punished by the whole economic and armed force of the overwhelming central police power. It will blockade, search, seize, drive such nation's commerce from the seas, prohibit nations' trading with such country, or take any other action it deems necessary to bring the guilty nation to time. But no individual nation will be permitted to go to war or exercise the power of blockade, search and seizure unless expressly authorized by the Nation of Nations. International lynch law is to be abolished. Justice shall be administered and order enforced in the family of nations, not by its individual members by violence indulged in at their pleasure, but by the civilized governmental agency they shall have created to perform that duty for their mutual and impartial benefit.

The people of the United States value highly the splendid friendship created between this country and Great Britain and its allied nations during this war. It would be a crime to permit that cordial sentiment to be dissipated during the peace settlement because some countries insist on reserving individual freedom of action instead of taking pot luck with the other countries and concentrating every energy toward the creation of one giant mutual instrumentality that would guarantee safety and justice to all. I believe the splendid people of Great Britain, France, Italy and the other countries, when they come to understand the true situation, will stand with the people of the United States and its President in demanding a Nation of Nations with the necessary machinery, authority and power to make the world safe for democracy and keep it safe forever.

A World Gold Reserve

The nations may also have to merge all their gold into one great world gold reserve to be the sound basis for a larger issue of elastic gold currency to be furnished to individual countries on a business basis. That may be the only way to increase the efficiency of gold and prevent a financial war between nations that would send gold to a premium, demoralize prices, wreck business and cause a world panic that might destroy the gold standard, demonitize gold and threaten general debt repudiation.

If this gold reserve is put into the hands of the Nation of Nations to administer, it would steady and increase world business and become a powerful but bloodless means for punishing any nation wantonly starting war. Withdrawal of the gold support of its currency and commerce would completely demoralize such nation's business immediately. There is now nearly 400 billion of bonds currency and values resting on the small pivot of the 8 billions of gold in the world. This dangerous condition should be strengthened without delay.

Glendale, Cal., Dec. 7, 1918.
Greater Glendale Development Ass'n.

Gentlemen: Recent articles in the Glendale papers regarding the action taken by the newly organized Greater Glendale Development Association led me to make a suggestion for your consideration.

A small park is a crying need for our prosperous city—not only for beautifying purposes, but especially as a resting place for visiting strangers, and for the many families who, not owning automobiles, must use the streets for any recreation.

A desirable location, in my opinion, for a small park, would be the grounds surrounding the public library building. The large, open grounds of the Glendale High School, nearby, would add greatly to the practical utility of this location.

A fine example of this type of recreation ground in a city is the beautiful and attractive park in connection with the Vermont Square public library, on Forty-eighth Street near Budlong Avenue, Los Angeles.

Further, the street improvements suggested by Mr. Woodberry, chairman of the board of trustees, should include the opening of a number of streets which are now closed, marring the harmony and beauty of the city and causing great inconvenience to the citizens. An illustration of this much needed improvement will be found in the unsightly block between Lexington Drive and Milford Street, which breaks the continuity of Orange Street.

Hoping these suggestions will receive your kind attention, I am, very respectfully yours,

W. J. BUTTON.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6, 1918.
Greater Glendale Development Ass'n.

Gentlemen: I have your letter of December 5, which came in answer to my letter of December 2, in reference to free camping grounds in Glendale.

One of my reasons for gathering information regarding public camping grounds in various cities throughout Southern California was to show the authorities in Los Angeles what had been done along that line by other communities; as you perhaps know, Los Angeles city has not provided a camping site for tourists. The demand for such a site is becoming greater every day and we hope that our efforts to persuade the city to install a camping grounds will be successful.

As we have not yet had any experience along the line of installing camping grounds, we are not in a position to answer the question in your letter, but I am enclosing a copy of a letter received from Tulare County outlining their plan.

Almost every city in California of any importance has installed public camping grounds for tourists, and those places are patronized at all times of the year and are a very valable asset to the cities. We have two or three calls a day regarding the camping grounds in Los Angeles and we hope soon to direct tourists to a fully equipped and nicely located place.

Trusting this data will be of service to you, we are, yours very truly,

AUTOMOBILE CLUB OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.
By O. W. Lewis, Bureau of Tours.

Enclosed in Mr. Lewis' letter was the one from the Tulare Board of Trade, to which he refers, as follows:

Tulare, Cal., Dec. 3, 1918.
Mr. O. W. Lewis, Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Sir: Replying to your valued favor of the 2nd instant, I beg to furnish your department with the following information relative to your inquiry:

From San Francisco to Los Angeles, via San Joaquin Valley route, is less than 450 miles. Tulare is situated almost exactly half-way between these two cities. From Bakersfield to Fresno is about 110 miles. Tulare is again about half-way between these two points.

Nearly two years ago, upon completion of a considerable part of the highway, Tulare was not only a prosperous town with a large income from butter, eggs, cream, poultry, grapes, livestock, peaches, alfalfa, wheat, etc., but it was on the main line of one of the greatest highways in the world; and, to our surprise, fine looking people in fine looking autos drove in every day, asking the question: "Where can we camp for the night?" As secretary of the local Board of Trade I was ashamed to say I didn't know of a good camping ground within a hundred miles. But resolved to have one. Prospective campers claimed all that they needed was a little shade, pure water and sanitary toilets. I got busy, secured a half-block of land, well shaded, within two blocks of the center of the business district of the city, and installed the aforesaid conveniences. We also installed many fireplaces for cooking. This year we found that travel had increased so much and that our camping grounds had "made a hit" with the touring public, we further resolved to make it the very best one in the state. We installed more fireplaces, piped water to all parts of the grounds, and put in sand beds for the children to play in. We keep the grounds well lighted with electricity, and later this summer we installed free shower baths for both ladies and gentlemen, with four needle sprays, two on either side of the building, of which the dusty traveler never ceases bragging. We have laundry tubs installed, and plenty of individual dining and cooking tables for their convenience, also a large, well-built pavillion for dining and reading purposes, well lighted by electricity. We built a nice small bungalow and have a good man who makes his home on the grounds and looks after the comfort of the travelers. It is all absolutely free and is used by the millionaire and working man alike. All are welcome to come as often as they like and stay as long as they wish. This is the most convenient camp for parties wishing to visit the Seqouia National Park, all in Tulare County, only 68 miles east of Tulare, containing not only the grove of largest trees in the world, the "General Sherman," but also the largest grove of big trees in the world. Sequoia Park covers 161,000 acres and the United States government intends very soon to make it much larger, taking in Mount Whitney, Kern and Kings Rivers Canyons. The big trees are reached by a splendid road, most of it being paved. A beautiful drive runs for many miles through oak timbered country and thence through orange and lemon groves, thence up the beautiful Kaweah River.

Thanking you for your inquiry, I am, yours very truly,

M. C. ZUMWALT, Sec'ty.

The chairman asked the secretary to read a letter from the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Association, inviting the president and secretary of the Greater Glendale Development Association to an informal banquet to be held at the Maryland Hotel, Pasadena, Wednesday evening, Dec. 11. At this banquet will be presented plans for making the thirtieth annual tournament of roses a greater success than it has been in any previous year.

Messrs. Wells and Lusby signified their intention of being present at the banquet, and these gentlemen will report the proceedings of the meeting next Tuesday evening.

Secretary Lusby reported that D. G. Melbrath of Alhambra had called at his office in behalf of the government of the United States, asking for the opportunity of leasing an acre or two acres of land with a four or five-room house, the house to be used for laboratory purposes and the land to be used for producing experimental crops, the diseases of which would be studied by those in charge. The land would be leased by the government for one year with an option of two or three years. Mr. Lusby's report was referred to the industrial committee.

H. B. Lynch, manager of the public service department, and T. W. Watson, city manager, spoke on the question of bettering the condition of boulevards entering Glendale and also on the question of installing electric and ornamental signs at roads entering Glendale from through boulevards. Others who spoke on important questions were: L. T. Rowley, A. A. Barton, F. H. Vesper, H. M. Butts, C. H. Toll, W. E. Evans, W. B. Kelly, Ezra F. Parker, Roy L. Kent.

A pledge chard form prepared by C. L. Chandler and Roy L. Kent was adopted and ordered printed. A vote taken showed that the majority of those present prefer to take up the installation of an auto parking ground as the first work of the association.

The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday evening, Dec. 17, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Victor Hotel room, which is being so kindly furnished by H. E. Betts and Mr. Daniels.
